You will be able to earn up to three CPD points in Substantive Law on the day.

9.00 - 9.30 am	Welcome Arrival & coffee
9.30 - 10.15 am	Seminar 1. Privacy Update: An overview of key recent developments and what to expect in 2022 and beyond Russell Kennedy's privacy specialist, Gina Tresidder, will discuss the direction Australian privacy laws are taking and what changes clients need to consider to stay one step ahead. This session will be relevant to privacy officers, project managers and anyone else involved in designing or implementing projects that involve the collection, handling, use or disclosure of personal information.
10.15 - 11.00 am	Seminar 2. Demystifying statutory interpretation: a step-by-step guide Statutory provisions are often open to a number of competing constructions of meaning. Using the modern approach to statutory interpretation, this session will explore judicial approaches to identifying and weighing various options, choosing the preferred legal meaning and applying it to your clients' circumstances where various interpretations are available. This session will be relevant to all government lawyers seeking to finesse their statutory interpretation skills. This session will be presented by Bea Dubinsky, Lawyer at Russell Kennedy,
11.00 - 11.15 am	Break & coffee
11.15am - 12.00 pm	Seminar 3. Golden rules for procurement success Kyle Gillan, Principal and Rory Maguire, Principal at Russell Kennedy will provide their observations on the 'golden rules' for achieving successful procurement outcomes over the lifecycle of the outsourcing and procurement process. They will also explore current trends and developments in the procurement space, including recent changes to enable the electronic execution of contracts and strategies for risk management.
12.00 - 12.45 pm	Seminar 4. Designing social and community programs – legal tips and traps Many government funded agencies help to roll out social and community programs. Jonathan Teh, Principal from Russell Kennedy will explore how to design programs and their associated funding/service agreements for maximum impact and returns. Jonathan will also discuss current trends for performance measures, data, intellectual property and privacy.
