To keep their social licence to operate, not-for-profits need to stay ahead of new standards and compliance regimes. Regulators are increasing their scrutiny.

If you get on the wrong side of regulators, millions of dollars of funding and tax concessions could be at risk.

These issues can quickly escalate into a crisis that threatens your organisation's reputation and survival.

This breakfast seminar will draw on the panel's extensive experience to explore a case study and considerations to ensure your organisation's response is effective and credible.
